Of

Wir benutzen das Wort "of" um einen Besitz anzuzeigen.

Hier wird aber noch einmal unterschieden:

a) Wenn Lebewesen, Gruppen oder Institutionen etwas besitzen, benutzen wir statt "of" das Apostroph S: 's

z.B.: Leo's mother; The office's door; The media group's building; The Carter's house

b) Wenn leblose Dinge etwas besitzen, nutzen wir 'of,

z.B.: The name of the book; The title of the movie

"Of" kann aber auch mit Adjektiven (Wie ist etwas?) genutzt werden, z.B. mit nice, kind, stupid, generous,...:

It's so nice of you to play with me! / It was stupid of Joe to steal the pen.

Und mit manchen Adjektiven steht "of" in sehr engem Kontakt:

afraid of (=Angst haben vor), ashamed of (=sich wegen etw. schämen), aware of (=sich etwas bewusst sein), capable of (=fähig zu etwas sein), fond of (=jmd./etw. lieben), sure of (=sich sicher sein), tired of (=etwas satt haben)

Auch mit Verben kann "of" verwendet werden, z.B.:

dream of (=träumen von), remind (sb.) of (=jn. an etw./jn. erinnern),
think of (=denken an)

From

'From' drückt aus, wo etwas oder jemand herkommt / seinen Ursprung hat.

z.B.: The ferrari is from Italy. / The book is from the author of "The Sunshine". /

The present is from Santa.

'From' wird in einem Satz oft mit 'to' und 'until' genutzt, um den Anfang und das Ende von etwas anzuzeigen.

z.B.: The store is open from 10 am to 7 pm every day.

They will be in Istanbul from Friday until Sunday.

'From' wird ebenfalls mit bestimmten Verben benutzt wie z.B. borrow from (=ausleihen von), disappear from (=verschwinden von), prevent from (=abhalten von)
