Step 3: Preparation of the Main Part - Aspect 2: The narrative perspective that is used to tell the story.

Now you: Take a closer look at the text. How are Frenchie ´s reactions/ decisions emphasized through the narrative perspective?

Point:

Evidence: Examples
from the text

Explain: Your
interpretation:

Analysis Solutions (Content):

2.

You should do the following:

Outline Frenchie's reaction to the moose, and prove this by referring to the text, e. g. • He feels that the moose is somehow bigger than the current situation. ("It was like he was a hundred years old, like he had watched all of this happen.") • Frenchie is aware that the moose knows he is there, but it does not run away ("... he saw me. He blinked a long, slow blink and faltered for only a second or two before he began chewing again.") • He starts to feel a personal and very close connection with the moose, ("I was sure I could see myself in there ...")	3
Outline how Frenchie decides what to do next, and show that it is a difficult decision for him. Then prove this by referring to the text, e. g. • He describes the benefits of killing the moose. ("This was food for a week. [...]. This was me, the conquering hero, marching into camp with more meat than all of us could carry.") • He considers the reasons why he does not want to kill the moose. ("But could we travel with this meat before it rotted? No. And could we smoke and dry it? No ...")	3
Analyse the effect of using the first-person narrator to tell the story. Show how Frenchie gives the reader an impression of his inner, emotional state when he faces the moose and has to decide whether or not to kill it. Then prove this by referring to the text, e. g. • His emotions cause physical reactions to the situation. ("Adrenaline made my teeth chatter.", "I swallowed hard, ...") • He relates the situation to people in his life. ("This was Rose looking at me with those big eyes") • He shows that he feels responsible. ("I couldn't let it come to this, not for him and not for me.") • He gives his emotional response to the effect of his decision on others. ("I pictured RiRi's face, sad because of an empty belly. That made me ashamed.") • He imagines what the others will think of him. ("I secretly hoped no one else had gotten anything so I wouldn't be the only loser.")	6
